

Sinclair Broadcasting's decision to force their stations to air an anti-Kerry documentary days before the election is a clear example of the dangers of media consolidation.

As a recipient of the ever-dwindling number of stations that operate outside the major conglomerates, I'm very dismayed at the unabashed bias that keeps turning up in the various outlets. This is a close election and the decision as to who wins should be based on the future, not the past. I'm very saddened that Sinclair would continue this useless discussion about Vietnam. That does nothing to advance the election process.

Unless Sinclair is forced to show either a pro-Kerry rebuttal or an anti-Bush equivalent, I am strongly opposed to the airing of 'Stolen Honor'. I hope you will take whatever action is necessary to ensure that the integrity of the democratic process remains as intact as possible in this wildly biased age. Thank you.
